this summer!

Summer RV Maintenance Tips

Summer is heating up and everyone is getting ready to get out and enjoy this summer! If that means hitting the road in your motorhome or travel trailer, check out these easy tips to keep your RV cool and running smoothly this summer!

Clean Your A/C Filters

Summer days warm up quick! Make sure to keep your rig cool by having your A/C unit in tip-top condition. Cleaning all your cabin and outside air filters will help not only keep your A/C unit running efficiently, but it will mean you and your family are breathing in cleaner air.

Have Your Cooling System Inspected

And speaking of cooling units, if you haven't had your's inspected recently, it's probably a good idea to get it checked out by a professional before you head out on a big trip. You don't want to get stuck in the middle of nowhere with no cool air! An inspection can show any potential problems and keep up with routine maintenance on your RV's cooling system.

Check Your Tire Pressure

When your RV has been in storage for months and with the changing seasons, it's common to have low tire pressure. Be sure to check your RV tire pressure and add air if necessary before setting out on the road. Always check your manufacturers recommended tire pressure to know how much is enough.

Test Your Batteries

The high summer heat can quickly zap your batteries by evaporating the water in them and cause corrosion. Be sure to check your battery's water levels regularly and keep the connections clean and well connected.
